September is Childhood Cancer Awareness and National Sickle Cell Awareness Month

September is Childhood Cancer Awareness Month, a time to raise awareness about the impact of cancer on children and their families. Childhood cancer remains one of the leading causes of disease-related death among children, and each year thousands of children are diagnosed in the United States. This month, we honor children and families facing cancer, celebrate survivors, remember those we have lost, and recognize the importance of research, treatment, and family support.

September is also National Sickle Cell Awareness Month, bringing attention to sickle cell disease (SCD), an inherited blood disorder that affects millions of people worldwide. In the United States, SCD affects approximately 100,000 people. At the CBC, we help raise awareness, increase education, reduce stigma, and support children and families living with SCD.

Our Annual Coat Drive is here!

Help provide warmth, comfort and hope to children in Oncology & Hematology. CBC is collecting new coats for children who need them most this winter.

Become a sponsor! Your support makes a real difference in the lives of children and families facing tough days. Sign up and receive a child's name and size to shop for.
